Preserves natural taste and texture through low-temperature drying
for consistent quality

Preserving essential nutrients while enhancing rich flavor and texture.

Harnessing the pristine natural environment of Hongcheon, Gangwon-do, we directly produce high-quality raw materials and reinvent them as premium vegan snacks and health foods through our proprietary Vacuum Low-temperature Frying (VLF) technology.

Application of Proprietary Vacuum Low-temperature Frying (VLF)* Technology

While conventional high-temperature frying (above 180℃) destroys the natural colors and nutrients of ingredients, KIRINE's VLF technology processes them at low temperatures between 80~120℃ under vacuum conditions. This ensures the perfect preservation of the original taste, aroma, and color while achieving an exceptionally crispy texture.

*VLF (Vacuum Low-temperature Frying) is an advanced food processing technology that fries and dries ingredients at low temperatures under vacuum (low-pressure) conditions

When Kirine creates it, even snacks become cuisine

Premium whole-food chips that preserve nutrition and elevate crispiness into an art form KIRINE is setting a new standard for snacks.

Using high-quality raw materials directly cultivated in Hongcheon

We ensure a stable supply of fresh and safe raw materials, including shiitake mushrooms, ginseng, and deodeok, by directly cultivating them in Hongcheon, Gangwon-do, or collaborating with local farms.

Using high-quality soybean oil for a clean and healthy flavor profile.

Departing from conventional palm oil-based methods, we utilize soybean oil to pursue a healthier product design.

Healthy snacks that maintain original flavors and colors while preserving rich taste and texture.
